Official 101 Is Highest June 21 in History of Local Bureau

June broke out all over yesterday with the climatic top temperature in the 11-day area heat wave.

It felt like it, and it was 101—the highest in the records of the city engineer's office for June 21, and it topped the 1943 high for that date by five points.

The city engineer's records also show, meanwhile, that the area has an all-time average rainfall of 4 inches during June, but to date this month, the few drops have added up to 13 inches.

The month can also be a cold one, the records show, for in 1940 the low temperature on June 21 was 48, and in 1944 it was only 66.

The average high temperature from 1935 to 1948 for June was 82 degrees, while during this warm, dry month it has been 94. The low, meanwhile, for the 1935-48 period averaged 60, while to date this year it has been 69.

Crop Damage Fears Grow In Northeast

(By The Associated Press)

A June heat wave in the nation's northeastern states sizzled on today amid a growing fear of serious damage to farm crops.

The long dry spell—no heavy rains in three weeks—intensified the hazard of fires in the heavily wooded areas of the New England states, New York and New Jersey. No immediate relief from the unseasonable heat appeared in prospect.

In Massachusetts alone, the hot, dry weather has caused an estimated $5,000,000 damage to crops. Hay and vegetables have suffered the most damage. John Chandler, Massachusetts agricultural commissioner, said the speculation is now being made that the state is not facing a crop failure.

However, strawberry and hay crops already have been reduced because of the long hot spell.

Scattered showers fell in parts of the state yesterday.

The danger of forest fires prompted officials of Massachusetts, to forbid hunting and fishing in state forests, effective today. Smoking and outdoor camping in the forests of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont also have been banned.

Workers in Government Offices Must Signify No Support Given to Archbishop

Beran Is Silent

Nothing Has Been Heard From Prelate Since Sunday

Prague, June 22 (AP)—Catholic employees in some Czechoslovak government offices said today they were being required to sign statements declaring they did not support Archbishop Josef Beran.

The archbishop is fighting attempts of the nation's Communist regime to get control of the church. The government has accused Beran of trying to wreck national peace and economy and has threatened to take legal action against him.

Some laymen who signed the statements told their priests they did so in fear of losing their jobs and dwellings. Churchmen said this was another move in the Communist step-by-step campaign to whittle down the archbishop's support and crush his resistance.

Official sources would not comment other than to claim new gains for the Communist-sponsored "Catholic action" movement, a separatist body. The separatist group has been called a fraud by the Vatican and the Czech Catholic hierarchy.

Archbishop Beran was believed to be still in his palace. He has been silent since Sunday when demonstrators interrupted services he was conducting in St. Vitus Cathedral.

One informed diplomatic source expressed belief the archbishop might be formally arrested on charges of anti-state activity and incitement to unrest.

For the past week the stocky 60-year-old Catholic leader has been in semi-captivity in his Prague palace. Government agents raided the consistory and seized church records. Security police manned the palace gates and telephone switchboard. Most palace callers were refused admission.

Disruption Is Charged

Communist Premier Antonin Zapotocky, in a radio address last night, accused Beran and other church officials of attempting to disrupt the peace of the nation and thwart fulfillment of its economic plans.

Zapotocky declared his regime would not tolerate "violations of law" by the Catholic hierarchy. He added: "Legal action will be taken against all saboteurs, provocateurs and instigators of discord and unrest."

Zapotocky's broadcast was the sharpest public statement yet uttered by the Red regime in the church-state war. It followed a cabinet meeting at which the government apparently decided on a quick finish fight to crush Beran's resistance to what he says are Communist plans for wresting control of the church and cutting its ties with the Vatican.

The premier did not say what steps were planned against Beran. It could mean his formal arrest and trial unless he backs down—something he has said he would never do.

The Red-dominated press has hinted that such action might be taken. It said the Roman Catholic Church was guilty of terrorist tactics which are "against the law and punishable."

Josef Cardinal Mindszenty was accused of anti-state activity and later tried and sentenced to life imprisonment in Hungary last February. Vatican sources have likened that case to the Beran issue.

Mine Hits Boat, Five Are Killed

Cross-Channel Vessel Sinks After Blast One Hour Out of Ostend Port

20 Are Injured

French Tugboat Captain Risks Life to Save Last 100

Dunkerque, France, June 22 (AP)—Live steam killed five Belgian seamen, trapped in an engine room, when the cross-channel vessel Princess Astrid struck a mine last night and sank four miles off the French coast. Twenty of the 415 passengers were hurt in the disaster.

The blast ripped a hole in the underside of the ship and smashed pipe fittings in the engine room. The rush of escaping steam fatally scalded the five screaming crewmen whose bodies went down with the ship. Five other seamen were hurt by the steam.

Channel boats reached the scene within a few minutes and began talking off the survivors. The Astrid was only one hour out of Ostend when she struck the mine that supposedly had been flanking around since the war. The ship is owned by the Belgian Maritime Service.

Captain Risks Death

London, June 22 (AP)—A French tugboat captain risked death to save the last 100 passengers from the sinking Belgian channel steamer Princess Astrid, retired U. S. Maj. Gen. John A. Hilling said today.

Hilling and his wife were among the last to leave the boat, which struck a mine off Dunkerque last night while en route to Dover. Five Belgian seamen were killed by live steam and 20 of the 415 passengers were hurt.

The Hillings, their baggage gone, arrived in London this morning. They had crossed by another boat from Dunkerque with other survivors.

"The hero of the rescue efforts was the captain of the little French tug Menahom," Hilling said.

"When the 11 loaded life-boats had lowered away, there still were 100 passengers aboard. It didn't look so good. But off in the distance we could see smoke and then the tug swished up to the Astrid like a whirlwind."

Laughs Tug to Steamer

"He didn't stand off at a safe distance though the Astrid was sinking rapidly," Hilling said. "The Menahom captain, completely fearless and calm, lashed his tug to the steamer's side."

The action alone accounted for the fact that many passengers didn't perish. They jumped into his tug within 15 minutes."

Hilling said the captain then stood off about 200 yards watching unsuccessful efforts by other boats to take off the Astrid's officers who were clinging to the rope ladders.

"When their efforts failed and they pulled off the tug, the captain moved to the hull and stayed there until the last man was safely aboard."

Later he plowed into a whirlpool of debris, as the Astrid was heeling over, to pull the first engineer out of the water.

Hilling said he and his wife were in the lounge having tea "when without warning there was a terrific roar. The room filled with steam. We were lifted from our seats by the force of the blast. Plates and glasses smashed into the ceiling. Timbers wrenched."

"But there was no panic," Hilling continued. "The behavior of all was incredibly good."

"My own family discipline broke down though," he laughed. "Against my insistence, Mrs. Hilling (Continued on Page 10, Col. 6)

Boy Scout Rescues Kripplebush Girl; Soldier Gives Aid

Robert Smith, 13, Dives for Child, 6, Brings Her to Shore at Spring Lake

Louise Redelberger, 6, of Kripplebush undoubtedly owes her life to the prompt action of Robert Smith, 13-year-old Boy Scout of Troop 12, First Dutch Church of 37 Hurley avenue, who rescued the girl from Spring Lake after she had gone down beyond her depth.

Artificial respiration which was promptly administered by Ronald Lord, formerly of Kingston and now of the U. S. Army at West Point, brought the child around before the emergency crew of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation arrived on the scene.

The little girl was taken by private car to the Kingston Hospital where she was placed under treatment of Dr. Joseph Jacobson and today it was reported that her condition was good and she probably would be released today.

Shortly before 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon Louise, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Lewis Redelberger of R. D. 1, Accord, (Kripplebush) was at Spring Lake bathing. She ventured too far from shore and apparently beyond her depth.

Saw Child Bobbing

Robert Tappan of 229 St. James street, Rosendale, guard at the lake, observed the little girl bobbing up and down in the water as he rowed past on guard. At first it appeared as though the child was playing, County Identification Officer Leonard Belmont said the guard told him. "Then it became apparent she was in difficulty although she was close to shore."

The guard rowed over to the spot where the little girl had gone down, and Robert Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Smith of 37 Hurley avenue, began to dive at the spot indicated. After several attempts, Smith struck the little girl's head as he went down and he pulled her to the surface.

Sheriff Is Called

Taken ashore by the guard, artificial respiration was given by Lord and word was sent to the Central Hudson for the respirator and Sheriff George Smith was called.

By the time the emergency equipment arrived the little girl had been revived and it was not necessary to use the respirator. She was taken to the hospital for observation.

Sheriff George Smith with Deputy William Frost and County Identification Officer Leonard Belmont went to the lake. The Central Hudson emergency truck at the scene was in charge of Clarence Wolfersheig, James O'Hara and Arthur Nash. State Trooper August Hunka was also at the scene.

The little girl had been under water only a short time when rescued, Belmont said, and the prompt action by the life guard in reaching the scene and the cooperation of young Smith and Lord, he said, had undoubtedly prevented Ulster County's first drowning of the season.

Possible Incendiary Fire Probed by Local Officials

Fire Convention Plans Near Finish

Final Touches to Be Added at Meeting on Monday; Ruby Entertained

All but incidental details are completed for the annual convention of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association in Kingston July 28, 29 and 30, the committee on arrangements announced last night at the meeting of the association in Ruby where the firemen were guests of the Mt. Marion-Ruby Fire Department.

Unfinished planning for the convention is expected to be completed at a meeting of the committee at 8 p. m. Monday in the Central Fire Station.

The banquet and entertainment program are scheduled for the opening night. The firemen will dine in the banquet hall of four local churches and the entertainment will be presented at the municipal auditorium.

Business sessions will be held on the second day of the convention and the parade will start at 2:30 p. m. Saturday, July 30.

A demonstration of an automatic fire alarm and blue light was given at last night's meeting by Capt. William Paul Babcock of Nyack.

Attendance was estimated at more than 200 and several new members were accepted into the organization.

Blaze Under Utility Car Extinguished by Firemen

A fire last night, believed to have been of incendiary origin, under a railroad utility car not far from the F. B. Matthews warehouse, Smith avenue, is under police investigation, Police Chief Raymond Van Buren said today.

Firemen were called at 9:48 p. m., and found the blaze in rubbish under the car which was on a side track between the warehouse and the main-line West Shore tracks.

Equipment from Central station and Wicks Engine Company were dispatched, and a line of hose was used in quenching the blaze.

Parts of the debris from the fire was turned over to the police by the fire department and Detectives Clarence Brophy and William Krum were assigned to investigate.

Firemen were also called at 8:50 p. m., last night to check a dump fire outside of the city incinerator on Wilbur avenue, and at 7:56 a. m. today a call to the Kingston Trust Company building, Main and Fair streets, resulted from a defect in an electric fan which filled a vault with smoke. The fan was removed.

New York Brewers Begin Operations After 82 Days

New York, June 22 (AP)—The city's big brewing industry started humming again today after settlement of an 82-day strike.

The 6,700 strikers began reporting for work last night, and local beer was expected to be in full supply by tomorrow.

An estimated 1,000,000 barrels was freed for quick delivery to the city's 11,822 drinking spots and 14,165 beer-licensed grocery stores and delicatessens.

President Asks Policy Be Kept Up

Leaders Are Reported Worried Over Way Matters Are Going in Congress

Proposal Rejected

Berlin Strike Bosses Draw Admonition for Action

Washington, June 22 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson heads for the Senate today to report on the Paris foreign ministers meeting—and probably to urge speedier action on the Atlantic Pact and a related arms program.

Acheson's return from the Paris meeting yesterday was followed by an appeal from President Truman for "no slackening" in vital phases of American foreign policy.

In a statement issued after a meeting with Acheson, Mr. Truman said:

"It must be frankly admitted that despite the forward looking program sponsored by the western powers as a basis for unification (of Germany), little progress was made."

The results of the meeting, he added, "reveal the correctness of the policies this government has been following in our foreign affairs."

"The results again underline the necessity of pursuing these policies with calmness and determination, as the only sure road to the establishment of conditions in the world where peace and freedom can live and endure."

Administration leaders are known to have been concerned during the four weeks Acheson was in Paris about the congressional timetable for action on the pact and the program to re-arm western Europe.

For this reason it was expected Acheson would carry forward the theme of the President's statement in his closed-door talk with members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Tomorrow he will meet with members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee. And at a news conference later in the day Acheson will have his first opportunity to make a detailed public statement on the Paris meeting.

Mr. Truman's summary of the four power Paris session noted that "genuine progress" was made during completion of a treaty to give Austria complete independence.

The President called that "very gratifying" and added that he hopes the treaty may be signed before the end of the year.

As for Germany, the President declared, Russia's refusal to recognize the progress which the western powers have made in setting up a democratic government in the occupation zones made real progress toward German unification "impossible."

Mr. Truman said the Russians wanted to go back to the Potsdam system of four-power control over all Germany—a system which he said they themselves "had rendered unworkable by their misuse of the unlimited veto."

As a result, the President said, the powers could agree only on a working arrangement for a still divided Germany. Noting that this "calls for an exchange of views" among the four powers next fall, he said:

"Thus the door is left open to future efforts for a solution of the German problem and the achievement of peace in Europe."

Proposition Rejected

Berlin, June 22 (AP)—Leaders of the striking West Berlin railway workers voted today to reject the latest proposal to end their walk-out and drew a stern admonition from an American official.

"It's time they start considering what's best for Berlin, not purely for their union," said W. T. Babcock, U. S. deputy commander-in-chief in Berlin. He warned the union leaders to "subordinate their union to the welfare of the city."

The leaders of the anti-Communist union, U.G.O., rejected Russian assurances that there would be no reprisals by the Soviet-controlled railway management against those who merely walked off their jobs. The assurances were given yesterday by (Continued on Page 21, Col. 2)

Business Probe May Bring Full Disclosure of Contracts

Washington, June 22 (AP)—Several senators agreed today the public should know all about people doing business with the government—including how they got the business.

The senators followed disclosure yesterday by Paul Gindoff, a Framingham, Mass., furniture manufacturer, that he had paid $1,000 to James V. Hunt, a former army officer and federal employee, for help in seeking government contracts.

Hunt was said to have claimed close friendship with numerous top government officials—a disclosure which brought a flood of denials.

An investigation of the case was ordered immediately by Chairman Hoyt (D-N. C.) of the Senate Investigations Subcommittee.

William P. Rogers, chief counsel of the committee, told a reporter he already has talked to witnesses. He declined to identify them, but presumably both Gindoff and Hunt will be questioned.

Debate Is Opened

Washington, June 22 (AP) — Democrats open House debate on President Truman's bitterly contested housing bill today with one compromise already planned in an effort to assure passage. In a party meeting yesterday the Democrats voted 147 to 8 to back a bill cutting the number of low-cost public housing units from 1,059,000 to be built in seven years to 810,000 units in six years—as approved by the Senate.

forest fire hazard serious but there has been no emergency closing. Five minor fires broke out in the Adirondacks yesterday. There have been 72 small fires in the last 11 days.

Three days of intermittent rain temporarily relieved the forest fire danger in Maine, but clear and warmer weather was forecast.

The New Jersey Agriculture Department said the crop outlook, despite the month-long drought, appears "favorable." Officials said indications now are that only the oats crop will fall below the 1948 output. The state sweltered yesterday as the mercury hit 96, a record for the date and the hottest day of the year.

The first day of summer also brought record breaking temperatures to many other eastern cities yesterday, the first day of summer.

The mercury bubbled to 95 at Boston. That also was the top mark at Philadelphia. New York felt just as hot with a top of 94. And it was only one degree lower at Albany and Syracuse, N. Y., and in Washington and Harrisburg, Pa.

Both the 96 at the Baltimore airport and 94 in the city were highs for the year. One person died and nine others were treated for heat prostration. In Detroit, some 17,000 auto workers were idle for the second straight day yesterday by "heat strikes" at the Chrysler and Kaiser-Frazer plants. Detroit reported hot and humid weather, a top of 96. Hot and humid weather also was reported over most of the southern states yesterday. But less humid and cooler air spread into the Great Lakes region. Temperatures were generally seasonable in the western states.

Poletti Laughs At Idea He Return To Political Stage

Washington, June 22 (AP)—Charles Poletti is an unusual man. He turned his back abruptly on politics when he left the New York governor's office in December, 1942, and he laughs at suggestions that he might re-enter the arena.

Poletti's political star shone brightly in New York when he was the youthful protégé of then Governor Herbert H. Lehman. Lehman took "Charlie" to Albany as his counsel, and later forced his nomination as lieutenant-governor on the Democratic ticket.

Lehman told Democratic leaders, who were pleading that the governor accept re-nomination, that he would do so only if "Charlie" also were named on the ticket.

When Lehman resigned in 1942 to become head of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, Poletti stepped into the governorship for a little less than a month. Then Governor-elect Thomas E. Dewey, a Republican, was sworn into office.

With the New York Democratic woods singularly devoid of other attractive gubernatorial and senatorial timber, newspaper reporters who knew "Charlie" in the old Albany days, interviewed him here recently.

"Why," they asked, "don't you make a stab for the Senate next year?"

Poletti threw up his hands in mock horror. "Not interested," he answered emphatically, "nothing doing."

He added that he could think of nothing that would induce him to try for the U. S. Senate seat now held by the ailing Robert F. Wagner (D) New York city. Wagner's term expires at the end of 1950 and he will not be a candidate for re-election.

Poletti, now practicing law in New York city, was in Washington to witness the oath-taking of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr.

new Democratic representative in Congress.

After leaving the New York executive mansion Poletti entered government service and after Italy fell to the Allies became head of that nation's military government.

He is known to entertain an increasing interest in foreign affairs. Friends cite his qualifications in this field, but Charlie won't talk about any job involving nomination and election.

He is known to feel that he could not best approach international problems as a senator. For one thing, even if he were a senator, he would be stifled for an indefinite time by Senate rules of seniority that require new members to mark time, more or less. Such a wait would be irksome to one of Poletti's temperaments.

In any event, Poletti's main concern is to provide adequately for his family.

Washington is still talking about the stir that the lanky, 34-year-old Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., made when he arrived to take his House seat. It had to be seen to be appreciated.

But the sweetness and honey that marked his House debut is not likely to be ever present. From now on F.D.R., Jr., is a marked person. He'll be watched as carefully as a goldfish—a handicap few House freshmen are forced to bear.

Few Fires

Fires are practically unknown in the forests of the Amazon region. Since the wood is hard, wet, and green, it does not burn easily.

Music for dancing was furnished by the Kentucky Moonshiners. At a recent meeting of the organization, members of the service and hospitality committee presented a program in the interest of beautifying the home. Mrs. Finley Green repeated lessons taught by specialists of the Home Bureau projects. Mrs. George Sisti demonstrated attractive flower arrangements. Poems were read by Mrs. Kenneth Cronk, Mrs. Charles Wood, Mrs. Linwood Underhill and Mrs. Joseph DeLapp. Special musical numbers were given by Mrs. Elmore Lozier and Wilma Vandermark.

The other dinner hour, I was minding my own minestrone in a small Italian restaurant across the street from Radio City when I suddenly heard the low, forlorn whistle of a whip-poor-will. I turned around and, sure enough, the birdcall was coming from the lips and larynx of Donald Bain, the gent who is responsible for most of the animal noises you hear on the radio these nights.

Well, I had been hearing about Bain and his talented tonsils ever since he got a good set of notices for the off-stage act fight he put on in "Remember Mama," and so I asked him to sit down and share a few yards of spaghetti with me.

"Never touch the stuff," said Donald. "The sauce irritates my throat. Besides, in 20 minutes I'm scheduled to do a fight to the death between a tiger and a water buffalo on N.B.C."

"You lead an adventurous life," I said, "but it must be plenty tough on your missus—never knowing whether she's cuddling up to a man or a covey of quail."

"I've never been married," said the rub of noise, "although—and here a moon-cow look came over his face—"I was recently involved in an exciting love triangle."

"Give," I said, "and don't hold out on any of the lip-smacking details."

"Well, to understand this amour," said Bain, "you've got to know something about pigeons. Have you ever watched the male pigeon courting the female?"

"Only Walter," I said. Donald ignored my moulty mol. "As George M. Cohan once pointed out," he said, "pigeons are a lot like people. For instance, as soon as a boy-bird gets a crush on a lady pigeon, she ignores his impassioned kurruruus and plays hard to get. Eventually, of course, she gives in, and they fly off to a little love nest up in the eaves of some bungalow."

"Stop making like Reader's Digest," I said, "and go on with the plot."

"Well," said Bain, "like a lot of Manhattan love affairs, this one started in Central Park where I go every day to tune my bird calls. One afternoon, I was watching two pigeons in the early rounds of a romance. The lady, a Powers model of a bird with a gorgeous purple ruff, whom I called Gilda, was being wooed by a grey pouter named Paul and, if I may make a little joke, he wasn't getting to first roost. And so, to see how good I really was, I started to kurruruu at Gilda myself, doing my best to make my mating calls softer and more diaphragmy than Paul's. Something like Sinatra with feathers."

"Now, mind you, I used no bread crumbs, cracked corn or anything else you might compare to the milk and diamond bracelets in our version of the game, but in no time at all gorgeous Gilda was perched on my shoulder and gurgling like crazy. Believe it or no, this pigeon pin-up had fallen head-over-tail-feathers in love with me."

"After a few minutes of it, I was willing to let the matter drop, but Gilda wouldn't stand for it. And from then on, whenever I went to the park to practice, she would spot me, drive the other birds away, and make a general nuisance of herself. "As for Paul—well, it was pitiful to see him eating his little pizzard out. He lost weight and then began to moult—the pigeon equivalent of 'Make It Another Old Fashioned, Please.'"

"Well, obviously I had to do something to break it off, but I wanted to let Gilda down easy. If I made a noise like a cat, for instance, the shock might have killed her. Finally I hit on a solution—instead of playing the male lover, I began mimicking the female, whose tones are higher and softer."

"At first, Gilda thought she was hearing things but, as I kept it up, she began to back away, a look of horror and disgust in her eyes."

"What a dirty trick," I said. "There's more to the story," said Bain. "When Paul heard my come-hither noises, he approached me with a gentle flutter and began acting like a sailor who had been given the wink. And here is another instance of what George M. Cohan meant when he said pigeons were like people—as soon as Gilda saw her old beau was on the make for another girl, she decided he was what she'd wanted all the time, and began giving out with the most shameless kurruruus I've ever heard. But Paul knew what he wanted—and what he wanted was me, and he chased me all the way to the 59th street exit, with Gilda right on his tail. "How did it all end?" I asked. "Squab on toast?" "No such thing," said Bain indignantly. "The following day I went back and—" Suddenly he looked at his watch and bounced up from the table. "Sorry, Billy," he said, "but it's nine twenty-five and I'm due to play a water buffalo in five minutes. Next time I see you, remind me to tell you what happened when Gilda flew in through my bedroom window. You won't believe your ears. . . . He had me there. Tripolitania Is Explosive Place of Strategic Value

Tripoli, North Africa, June 22 (AP)—Britain is sitting on a powder keg in strategic Tripolitania.

Almost everyone here agrees the keg will explode into Arab riots or revolt next fall if the U.N. Assembly tries to hand Tripolitania back to its former Italian rulers.

The fiery Mufli of Libya threatens to lead his 700,000 Moslem followers in a war for independence or death if Italy returns. For the U. S. and Britain trouble here would be disastrous. Peace is essential to the west's political and military position.

Why? Because the ace in America's African strategic deck is Wheelus Field. That's the big, but little-publicized standby air base just outside Tripoli town. Disturbances endangering Wheelus Field could upset American strategy over a big Mediterranean area.

Britain's stake is even bigger. Her 8th Army erased the last Italian resistance from Tripolitania's 106,172 square miles of sand and shore in January, 1943. For six and one-half years, Britain has had the costly, thankless job of mothering 326,000 Tripolitans. Meanwhile, the Big Four and now the U.N. Assembly have quibbled fruitlessly over Tripolitania's political disposition.

Traditionally Pro-Arab Britain is traditionally pro-Arab. But as the occupying military power responsible for maintenance of order, she certainly would have to use force should trouble break out in conjunction with any attempt to reimpose Italian rule.

If that happened, Britain's whole middle east position would be weakened by ensuing political repercussions in the Arab world. Behind the explosive Tripolitan situation is the story of a prewar administration which made Arabs little more than third-class citizens.

"I'd prefer an Israeli trusteeship to the Italians—that's how bad they were," said Themoslem editor of Tripoli's Arab newspaper. Even a big percentage of the 40,000 Italians here fear reimposition of Italian rule because they believe Arabs might massacre them before the Italians arrived.

Last spring Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin and Italian Foreign Minister Carlos Sforza cooked up a plan to divide the former Italian colonies.

Tripolitania was to go to Italy. Alternates Suggested What are the alternatives? Complete independence is most mentioned. All Arab parties have joined in a National Congress. It demands immediate independence and unity with neighboring Cyrenaica, which recently was granted internal self-government by Britain.

But, say qualified sources here, from a practical viewpoint that seems impossible. A whole generation grew up almost without education because the Italians maintained no Arab secondary schools. There would be a desperate shortage of administrators and professional men.

International power politics also would prevent independence these informants say. Algeria and Tunisia, both seething with Arab Nationalism, border Tripolitania. They are France's most important holdings abroad. The French have made it clear they will not accept an independent Arab state on the borders of French North Africa.

The most likely outcome, and one which Arab leaders privately say is acceptable although they denounce it publicly, would be a ten-year British Trusteeship, followed by independence.

Sitting at a table with Al Moore, of Kent, Conn., one would never visualize him as the fellow who draws the Esquire girls. When I tell you that he played in the backfield on Northwestern from 1929 to 1932 and spent a year with the Chicago Bears, you will understand he's not delicate. Old Northwestern University boys will remember when Al was doing his first drawings for "The Purple Parrot." I understand he also did the football covers for the programs, then he would put aside his paint brushes, go out on the field and carry the ball.

Sorting Stones

Latest pneumatic machine for sorting stones from potatoes simply blows a blast of air at them as the digging machine brings them up. Potatoes, being relatively light, are blown onto a conveyor that removes them for bagging. Potato-sized stones, being heavy remain behind and are discarded.

Youth Describes Killing Brother In Arkansas in '42

Fort Smith, Ark., June 22 (AP)—An 18-year-old boy told officers here he accidentally killed a younger brother almost seven years ago while demonstrating "what I'd do to the Germans."

Sheriff Prentice Maddux said Charles Owens walked into his office yesterday and volunteered the information that he shot his eight-year-old brother Preston on November 20, 1942.

Owens was being held without a formal charge, Maddux said he probably would be given a hearing on a charge of involuntary manslaughter.

The sheriff said Owens told him he had joined the church and his conscience was bothering him.

Charles, Preston and a third brother, about four, were alone in their South Fort Smith home when the shooting occurred.

"Charles told me they found an old pistol and were showing what they'd do to the Germans," Maddux reported.

"Charles thought all the cartridges were out of the gun. He put it against his brother's head and pulled the trigger. The brother dropped, and Charles threw the pistol beside him."

"Then he told his mother and stepfather that Preston had accidentally shot himself."

The three boys were sons of Mrs. Elmer Cates and stepsons of Cates, Maddux said.

May Jury Reports To Judge Cashin In County Court

In a partial report made by the members of the May grand jury to County Judge John M. Cashin this morning, six open, five sealed indictments were reported and there were five dismissals.

Members of the grand jury will be retained during the coming summer season in the event there is need for grand jury action prior to the calling of the first grand jury next fall.

Paul Edward Drake was charged with burglary, second degree, and unlawful entry, and also grand larceny, first degree, for an alleged entrance to the Napanook County Club on May 1. A plea of innocent was entered and Joseph A. V. was returned to jail. Guido Napoleone was assigned by the court as counsel when defendant stated he had no money to engage counsel.

Harold R. Dore was indicted for violation of Section 483-A, carnal abuse, alleged to have taken place on May 12. A plea of innocent was entered. Joseph A. V. was asked for 20 days to make further motions.

Richard Joseph Carey, Jr., was charged with grand larceny, second degree in two counts arising out of the alleged taking of a car on May 3. He entered a plea of innocent. Chris J. Finnegan was also charged in a second indictment with grand larceny, second degree, in two counts for another car affair alleged to have taken place on May 2. A plea of innocent was also entered to that charge. He was returned to jail.

Henry Shay, who said he had no home and had been in Kingston three days when he was picked up on charges of endangering the morals of a child, entered a plea of innocent.

tered a plea of innocent to a charge of violation of Section 483-B, alleged to have taken place on May 1. Elmer H. Nathan was assigned and Shay was returned to jail.

William John Wilkins, charged with burglary, second degree for the alleged entrance to the farm house on the Kauder farm at New Paltz on June 18, was on recommendation of the grand jury adjudged a youthful offender and the indictment was ordered sealed. His case will be disposed of under the youthful offender statute. William A. Kelly appears for the youth.

In five cases no bill of indictment was found and the bail in those cases was exonerated or the defendant discharged from jail if in custody.

No indictment was found in the following cases:

The People vs. Vincent Bouck; Kingston, charged with assault, second degree.

The People vs. Cossie Hancock, Milton, held for assault, second degree, growing out of a fracas in which his wife was involved.

The People vs. Edward Zakrzewski, Wawarsing, assault, second degree.

The People vs. Samuel Rotella, Shandaken, burglary, third degree.

The People vs. Harriet and Frank Jones, disorderly conduct. Franklin Bell, Kingston, was sentenced to a term of from 12 to 3 years in Clinton State Prison on his plea of guilty of assault, second degree. Joseph A. V. appeared for Bell. Execution of sentence was suspended and Bell was placed on probation. A second count of rape, second degree, was dismissed.

In the case of Jesse Starr, who came before the court for sentence, the sentence was postponed until July 12 on request of Michael Nardone, attorney. Mr. Nardone stated that Starr had compensation due him and he asked for a postponement of sentence until that matter was adjusted.

On motion of their counsel the cases of Harold and Foster Post of Catskill was put over to the September term.

An old indictment against Charles W. Scully was dismissed. Judge Cashin declined to permit the bondsmen of Conrad Bodo to surrender him to the court. He said the defendant had made no attempt to run away and was working steadily and he saw no reason to grant the application. Further he said there appeared to be something in back of the move and he declined to permit a party to any attempt to force restitution by a defendant through causing him to be jailed when bondsmen sought to surrender him without a valid reason. The matter was adjourned until July 12.

Judge Cashin adjourned the term until Tuesday, July 12, at 10 o'clock.

Stokes Gets 30 Days

Kenneth Stokes of Saugerties was arrested by Saugerties police Tuesday on a charge of petit larceny. It was alleged, Chief of Police A. W. Richter said, that Stokes stole gas from a car. Before Police Justice Ernest E. Schirmer a 30-day jail sentence was imposed.

Lawyer Questions, Coplon Admits Trysts in Hotels

Washington, June 22 (AP)—Further cross examination faced Judith Coplon today, following her testimony she had spent two nights in hotel rooms with a man other than the Russian engineer she thought she loved.

The probing questions of John M. Kelley, Jr., a government prosecutor, brought that disclosure yesterday, as well as an acknowledgment she had spent more than one night in the same man's Washington apartment.

This testimony created an uproar during which Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves told the defendant's mother she would have to conduct or leave the courtroom.

Kelley asked Miss Coplon to repeat her story that she met Russian engineer Valentine A. Gubitchev only because he had told her that he loved her and that she felt she loved him more than any other man she had ever met. Then the prosecutor suddenly demanded: "Isn't it the truth, Miss Coplon, that you and Gubitchev never were in love whatsoever in the slightest degree?"

She answered over the vigorous objections of her attorney, Archibald Palmer. "As far as I knew," she said, "I was very deeply in love with him. As far as I know, from what he said to me, I thought he was very deeply in love with me."

"And that is how you felt right up to January 14, the moment before he told you he was a married man?"

"I did."

Composure Breaks

"Is it not the truth," Kelley asked, "that just one week prior to that date prior to January 14, which would be the night of January 7, you spent the night in room 412 in the Southern Hotel in Baltimore, while registered with a man under the name of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Shapiro from 122 Burr-street, East Hartford, Conn.?"

(A Justice Department spokesman identified Shapiro as an employee in the administrative procedures section of its criminal division.)

Miss Coplon, whose composure on the witness stand had been remarked upon by spectators, screamed:

"That's a damn lie! Why are you doing this in front of my mother?"

"You deny it?"

"Is it not true that on the following night, the 8th of January, you spent the night in room 1523 of the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel in Philadelphia while registered with the same man, under the name of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Shapiro?" Kelley persisted.

Miss Coplon tried to interrupt. Her mother spoke up from her courtroom seat. Palmer objected furiously.

"I knew he was going to do this," cried Mrs. Rebecca Coplon of Brooklyn, N. Y., the defendant's mother. "I expected this from him."

Judge Reeves directed marshals to remove Mrs. Coplon from the courtroom. Persons seated near her said she told the marshals: "No, no, I want to hear all of this." She quieted down and was not required to leave.

Kelley resumed: "Answer my question. Did you not spend the night with Mr. Shapiro on those occasions?"

"I do not know how he registered," Miss Coplon said. "I spent the night with him, during which time I did not sleep or make any attempt to sleep."

Man's Body Found At Marlborough

The body of a man identified by state troopers as Joseph Bushman, about 60, was found today on the Marlborough dump by Ignatz Xapolitsky, collector, when he went to the dump this morning.

The state police at Highland were notified and Coroner Jesse McHugh was summoned.

The state police described Bushman as a heavy drinker, who had been employed as a farm hand on the Charles Bolzani farm on Ridge Road, Marlborough. He had no permanent home, State Police said.

The body was turned over to the Tuttle Funeral Home.

State Police went to the scene to investigate.

It was reported that there was no apparent foul play involved and that the man probably had died of a heart seizure. The body may have been there for two or three days.

Detroit, June 22 (AP)—Heat strikes caused approximately 17,000 auto workers to be idle yesterday. Chrysler Corp. said it was forced to send home 12,000 employees. Production was stalled, the company said, when a group of men quit. Kaiser-Frazer halted its two assembly lines, laying off 5,000. Trim department workers had left. Two Alternates To Be Selected

New York, June 22 (AP)—The regular jury for the trial of two accused "lonely hearts" killers is now complete, but two alternate jurors still are to be chosen.

State Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora has put off that task until Friday, because a new panel of veniremen must be called from which to pick the alternates.

There will be no trial sessions until then.

A jury of 10 men and two women was sworn in yesterday on the ninth day of proceedings, during which Justice Pecora has repeatedly rebuffed Defense Attorney Herman E. Rosenberg for drawn-out questioning of prospective jurors.

The judge ordered a new panel of 150 persons drawn, to report Friday for the selection of a alternate jurors. The alternates are chosen to sit with the jury to replace any member who may become unable to serve through out the trial.

The defendants, Raymond Fernandez, 34, and Mrs. Martha Beck, 29, are accused of first degree murder in the ham strangulation slaying of Mrs. Janet Fay, an Albany, N. Y., widow, last Jan. 4.

They also are accused in Michigan of killing a Byron Center widow and her infant daughter.

The slayings allegedly grew out of a scheme to swindle lonely women through correspondence romances.

EAT WELL for Less

FINE FLOUNDER NOW ABUNDANT

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Flounder is swimming into summer menus. It's abundant, economical and delightful eating.

The flounder family includes a lot of fine fish-folk, namely, gray sole, lemon sole, yellow tails and dabs. Ask them in to dinner. Everyone will have a good time.

Now here's a de luxe dinner party special. It's wonderful and comes from The Art of Fish Cookery, by Milo Mioradovich, a genius at such things:

Flounder Baked With Almond Sauce
(Serves 6)

Two pounds flounders fillets, 1 onion, sliced, salt 6 whole peppercorns, 1 bay leaf, 1/2 teaspoon thyme.

Wipe flounder fillets with damp cloth. Arrange layer in greased baking pan of one sliced onion, bay leaf, thyme and peppercorns. Place fillets over this layer of seasoning; salt lightly to taste. Set aside.

Almond Sauce
One-half cup toasted almonds, chopped; 2 tablespoons olive oil, 1 onion, minced, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, 1 bouillon cube, 2 tablespoons water, 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Pour olive oil into saucepan placed over low flame; add almonds, onions and parsley; blend well. Dissolve bouillon cube in 2 tablespoons boiling water; add to almond mixture; simmer gently 5 minutes over low flame; gradually blend in lemon juice, stirring constantly; when smooth, remove sauce from flame.

Four almond sauce over fillets arranged in baking dish; bake fish in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 minutes. Serve piping hot on preheated individual plates.

Variation: Use any lean-meated, sweet-flavored fish fillets, such as halibut, pike or pollock. Baking time approximately 30 to 40 minutes.

TOMORROW'S MENU
Breakfast: Canned grapefruit juice, ready-to-eat cereal, soft-cooked eggs, enriched toast, butter or fortified margarine, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Toasted Swiss cheese sandwiches, radishes, celery and top onions, sliced bananas and oranges, cookies, iced tea, milk.

DINNER: Baked flounder with almond sauce, parsley potato balls, broiled tomato halves, enriched rolls, butter or fortified margarine, mixed green salad, French dressing, blackberries, sponge cake, coffee, milk.

The American flag should be hoisted briskly and lowered ceremoniously.

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, June 21—The Children's Day program at the Ashokan M. E. Church last Sunday evening was much enjoyed by those in attendance. The numbers included 22 individual recitations; several songs and exercises by groups of Sunday school children, responsive readings and hymns. Piano music was furnished by Mrs. Charles Sickler and the benediction and prayer were by the Rev. Milton Ryan, pastor of the church.

Wilbur "Bill" Sherwood of Poughkeepsie was numbered among the business callers in the hub of the reservoir country Monday afternoon.

Wilfred Allen, a former resident of the old state road neighborhood, and wife spent last Wednesday at the Allen place. The couple now make their home at 1618 Eutaw Place, Baltimore, Md.

Joseph Hausner, who resided here several years ago, has the foundations laid for a bungalow on his woodland along the north side of the Onteora Trail at Ashokan. The Hausner property is the one time "Halsey Lot" which for generations was well known to lumbermen.

Mrs. Bernard Casablanca and son, Vincent, of Washington Heights, are at the family rented cottage in the Church Hill neighborhood. Bernard, who was here for the week-end, is still engaged in housing construction at Elizabeth, N. J., and upon completing his work there he expected to be employed at the Alfred E. Smith plan on New York's lower East Side, reportedly the largest housing project in the world.

Having a birthday this week is Margaret (Mrs. John) Rainey who will be 90 years old on Wednesday. Mrs. Rainey, whose maiden name was McMillan, was born at Broad-Olive with the exception of a few years in post-warworks times when she and her late husband resided at Woodstock. She is fairly active and enjoys greeting friends in the course of her short walks in the village center.

The first Continental Congress was called by Massachusetts and Virginia in 1774.

It is the universal custom to display the American flag only from sunrise to sunset.

Racial Outbreak Flares in St. Louis; Eleven Are Hurt

St. Louis, June 22 (AP)—A racial clash between Negroes and whites flared in a St. Louis park yesterday over a non-segregation order. Eleven persons were injured, two seriously.

Police redoubled their watch today to prevent a new outbreak.

The series of fights started over whites and Negroes using the same swimming facilities—a city owned pool in a North St. Louis Park.

The Negroes were swimming in the pool under a new rule that opened the gates to them.

At the peak of the outbreak, an estimated crowd of between 4,000 and 5,000 was at the scene.

It has been the city's policy to segregate races in playgrounds and pools. The city has two outdoor and four indoor pools for whites and three indoor pools for Negroes.

After the first report of violence, Mayor Joseph M. Darst rescinded the order allowing Negroes and whites to swim together.

About 250 white boys and 50 Negroes went into the pool at the opening time in Fairground Park.

After about 45 minutes several Negroes left the pool. Police said white boys, armed with clubs and knives, attacked the Negroes. One Negro was cut on the head in the fight. Police escorted the rest from the park and told them to go home.

Toward evening large groups of teen agers and adults gathered around the park. Several bicycles, cars and trucks belonging to Negroes were damaged.

Ten persons suffered injuries in the second outbreak. More than 400 police were rushed to the park to break up the scattered fights.

The park is in a 'white neighborhood'.

Do You Remember

by
SOPHIE MILLER

Received some interesting items from A.P.C., including another item about Abbey and the "Square Dealer." (The Square Dealer was a scandal sheet published by Stephen H. Abbey on the Strand. Came out on Saturdays.) Quote from article in The Leader of 1908—"The strange fact about this paper was that despite the hatred in the city for 'The Square Dealer' printers say that it printed and sold about 3,500 copies weekly. The reading of it, however, was mostly secretive as it was supposed to be 'banned' in the homes, stores and factories of the city."

From the files of February 12, 1908, there were some 150 prominent persons who attended a meeting in the court room to try and stop the paper from being printed and distributed. Superintendent of Schools S. R. Shear was elected chairman of the group. Attorney Augustus H. Van Buren made a fiery speech against the paper. The Citizens' Committee even went so far as to have Attorney Virgil Van Wagonen and Mr. Van Buren represent them. When the case came up, the recorder ruled that Stephen Abbey had no redress because he would not admit authorship of printed material and admitted he was but an officer of a publication.

On February 21 of that year, Abbey secured an injunction in Supreme Court in New York by Judge Marcan, restraining the Citizens' Committee from interfering with publication. A few days later Judge Marcan vacated his order on petition of D. M. DeWitt and William C. DeWitt of Kingston. On February 25 Abbey again secured a new injunction in Brooklyn. This was argued by Judge A. T. Clearwater, Virgil Van Wagonen and A. H. Van Buren. This injunction after a long hearing was made permanent. The court ruling that freedom of the press was constitutionally right, that seizure of the papers violated it. Saying "two wrongs don't make a right" and advised citizens to proceed with libel suits already filed. However Stephen Abbey finally gave up the paper and left town. Many citizens still possess this short lived but much talked about paper and copies of it may be seen at the Senate House Museum. Local merchants used to advertise in it.

Looking back 100 years to 1850 when North Front street was the business street of Kingston. It is said there were only two stores on Wall street. The street at that time had no sidewalks. Where the State of New York National Bank now stands, there was a dry goods store kept by a Mr. Perkins. The other Wall street store of 1850 was located opposite the court house, a book store kept by Rodney A. Chipp, brother of Howard Chipp. The post office was then located in the Romeyn building on Wall street on the ground floor below the office of the Kingston Journal. The postmaster was William H. Romeyn. Henry C. Rosecrance was the town barber, where folks congregated. Thomas Clark ran the Eagle Hotel on Main street. Sheriff Jacob L. Signor ran the Kingston Hotel. John Towns-ond, clerk in hotel, married the sheriff's daughter and opened a dry goods store.

DON'T SEE EYE TO EYE—Brown-eyed Priscilla Tomlinson, of Seattle, Wash., and blue-eyed Hugh Gardner, of Missoula, Mont., fellow students at the University of Washington, have a long-standing argument: "Will a blue-eyed mother and a brown-eyed father have children with blue or brown eyes?" Priscilla says blue-eyed children will predominate. Hugh says brown-eyed children will predominate. There was only one way to settle the argument and they took it. They agreed to get married.

Responsibility Is Great, Medicos Are Told at Conference

Lake Placid, N. Y., June 22 (AP)—The medical profession has put itself on a spot by making it possible for people to live longer, an eminent authority contended today.

Dr. Howard A. Rusk said medicine and public health "cannot escape responsibility" for what he called a growing epidemic of "chronic disability" among older persons.

Dr. Rusk, chairman of the Department of Rehabilitation and Physical Medicine in New York University's College of Medicine, told the 45th annual Health Conference in a prepared address:

"Medicine has made it possible for people to live longer, long enough that they eventually acquire chronic disease and its resultant physical disability."

"Medicine is in a paradoxical situation, for, with its every advance, it adds to its own burden and responsibility."

He said the growing tide of chronic disease and physical disability threatened to engulf the nation medically, socially and economically.

"Medicine and public health," he asserted, "have caused much of this growing tide through the scientific advances they have made . . . to provide better health for the American people."

He mentioned achievements in reducing the incidence of death from infectious and communicable diseases, reduced infant mortality and improved public health measures.

Dr. Rusk said that in 1900 about 4.1 per cent of the nation's population was 65 years of age and older. By 1950, he added, it has been estimated that more than 11,000,000 persons in the U. S., or about 7.7 per cent of the population, will be 65 and over.

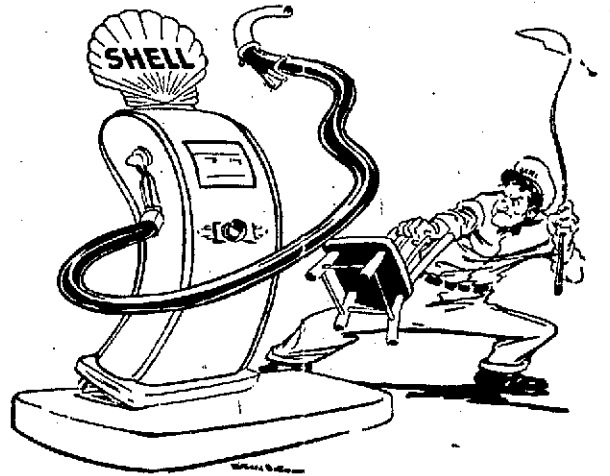

Dr. Thomas Farran, former surgeon general of the U. S. Public Health Service, told the conference that "any health program must be justified on an economic basis." He discussed "industrial health."

Cousin DAZZLE Says

If you can eat off a woman's kitchen table, the chances are she'll make a loyal friend.

Kitchen cleanliness is a sure sign of a happy woman. And a smart woman tool keeping a kitchen really clean takes a lot of intelligence. Take enamel sinks, for instance. They get stained, but a smart woman washes them with a mixture of Dazzle Bleach and water, just like it says on the label. Out come the stains!

Drainboards are often a problem, but an effective germicide like Dazzle Bleach keeps them sanitary.

The modern way to keep dishcloths clean and fresh is to wash them in a Dazzle Bleach solution and rinse clean after every use. You'll be surprised how much longer they last and how clean they'll smell. Dishcloths too!

Decolorize your drains by pouring a cup of Dazzle in them at right about once a month. Your greasy carries Dazzle Bleach in quart and half-gallon bottles. I usually get the half-gallon size because it's so economical.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post
 (Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

A reader asks: Are the cards sent with the wedding gifts always displayed with them? A young couple, whose engagement is not yet announced, want to send a single wedding present together, but if the card will be left on all of the presents for the guests to read, will not their names together practically announce their engagement?

If presents are numerous—yes, because it is impossible for the bride to repeat all the names to each guest. In answer to your second question: If both belong equally in the circle of the bride's best friends, the cards would not mean anything in particular. But if one alone is a very intimate friend and the other an outsider, the names together would indicate their engagement.

Many Names on Invitation
 Dear Mrs. Post: There are six married children in our family, one unmarried. The seven of us would like to send invitations to a 50th wedding anniversary celebration for my parents. May all seven names appear on the invitations and what about the husbands and wives? Should the unmarried sister's name head or end the list? She's the oldest.

Answer: Instead of listing so many names, my advice is to follow this wording:

In honour of the Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John Longlife their sons and daughters request the pleasure of etc.

R.s.v.p. (name of person selected to receive replies).

Name on Church Envelope
 Dear Mrs. Post: In a contribution envelope put in the collection plate in church on Sundays, is it proper to write the name of a married woman as Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. Jane Smith, or just her signature, Jane Doe Smith?

Answer: Mrs. John Smith.

Sending Belated Gift
 Dear Mrs. Post: When sending a belated wedding gift should the package be directed to Mr. and Mrs.—or, as usual, just to the bride?

Answer: Either way is proper although I think a belated gift is more often sent to Mr. and Mrs. than to Mrs. alone.

Mrs. Post's booklet, No. 501, "The Etiquette of Weddings," gives details on preparations for either small or large weddings.

To obtain a copy send 10 cents (coin preferred) and a 3-cent stamp to her, c/o this paper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. (Released by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Woodstock News

Artists Schedule Seven Exhibitions

Woodstock, June 22—Seven exhibitions rather than the customary five in past years will be presented this season at the Woodstock Artists Gallery, it was announced Monday afternoon by Eugene Ludins, president, Woodstock Artists Association, at the semi-annual meeting of the organization held in the gallery. Ludins told the 100 or more members attending that the additional two exhibitions were made possible because of the Association's operating on a yearly lease for the gallery. The opening exhibition of paintings by Judson Smith closed June 21.

Exhibitions scheduled for the balance of the summer season will include:

1. First group show, June 24 to July 6. Drawings, paintings, gouaches, small sculpture to be juried by executive board. Size limitation, all work must not exceed 30 inches in any direction, including frame. Work not meeting these conditions will be disqualified. Paintings submitted must be delivered to the gallery by July 7.

2. Open show, July 8 to July 20. A non-jury show. Work in all mediums will be accepted. Only one entry for each artist. All work must meet size limitation under 30 inches including frame. Work to be delivered to gallery July 7 and called for July 21.

3. Ballroom show, July 22 to August 3. An exhibition to consist of 30 canvases by members or non-members residing in Woodstock to be selected by vote of the members of the Association. Artists selected will be notified by the board. Work is due in the gallery on July 21.

4. Midsummer show, August 5 to August 17. Paintings and sculpture to be selected by a jury of 10. This jury will be composed of members of the Association. Artists selected will be notified by the board. Work is due in the gallery on July 21.

5. Fall show, August 19 to September 3. A jury of three non-resident artists will select this exhibition. Mural decorations created for the Harvest Festival Ball will be on August 27 and 28 during the exhibition. The board of directors will invite this jury although Mr. Ludins stated that the board would welcome suggestions from the members.

6. End of season exhibit, September 5 to September 23. Details to be announced.

Ludins and other members of the board emphasized the fact that "there is no hanging fee for members or non-members at the Woodstock Art Gallery." Twenty-five per cent commission is charged by the Association on sales. Of this, two per cent is allotted to the Artists Welfare Fund.

Three new appointments to the executive board were announced. Cecile Forman as corresponding secretary replaces Frederick Knight who resigned; Denny Winters, membership, in place of Yasuo Kuniyoshi who is teaching in California this season; and Will Blissner, treasurer, for Wendy Jones who requested leave of absence. The appointments continue until the annual meeting in the fall.

Sidney Laufman, chairman, extension committee, reported "elaborate plans" for the season's gallery evening. "How well they materialize will depend on the willingness of the members to participate," he said. There will be round table discussions and talks by various qualified persons. Members having ideas about the topics they would like discussed, were requested to submit them to the extension committee.

The first of the gallery evenings to which the public is invited will be held Saturday evening, June 25, and will include a group of local artists who have recently returned from Europe. They are Carolyn Brandt, Harry Wehle, curator, contemporary art, Metropolitan Museum; Arthur Zaidenburger and Jack Levine.

Rental Is Raised
Arnold Blanch, finance chairman, informed the members that the annual rental for the gallery has been raised from $800 to $1,000. He said that the Association would require additional funds. "Last Fall, I started out to raise $20,000 for an addition to the gallery," Blanch said, whose efforts were rewarded by illness. "I still have hopes. More and more, things are getting tighter and the welfare fund will be called upon to serve its purpose. If any of you have any ideas of raising money, let us know. What we need is some really large sums. If there are any friends who would like to sponsor a worthy cause, ours is it," concluded Blanch.

An improvement made in the gallery is that of a room for hanging prints and small sculpture. It also will contain portfolios of prints, water colors and drawings. Some space in the room will be turned over to the Woodstock Frame Company who will have sample frames displayed. Plans for the third annual art conference are being formulated and will be released as soon as possible.

Particular mention was made of the Woodstock Society for New Music, under the direction of Frank Mele, well-known violinist. Last summer this group gave a series of readings of new compositions during the art conference. One series was at the Art Students League and several days following at the Art Gallery. Said Ludins, "We are anxious to make more of the music program this year. It is a fine thing for the community."

Albert Heckman, president, Artists Realty Company, reported on the activity of this organization which owns the Art Gallery. The porch on the back of the gallery has been entirely rebuilt. He explained that the improvements in the building have been costly and in order to obtain necessary monies, the company will have to sell stock. There is available now for sale, 40 shares of capital stock and 11 shares of subscription stock.

The Realty Company does not approve the sale of more than two shares of stock to any one person. This is done so as to make it as much of a community enterprise as possible. "Many people who originally bought stock to make the gallery possible,"

Exhibition Opens Horse Show Week

Woodstock, June 22—An exhibition of paintings and drawings by prominent local artists on display in Deane's Gallery room marks the opening of Horse Show Week. The third annual spring horse show will be presented Sunday, June 26, at the Woodstock Riding Club's new ring on Ohayo Mountain. Some of the artists whose works are included in the exhibition are: John Magalan, Edward L. Chase, Brock, Alfeo Faggi, Thel Magnan and Edward Chavez. Rosella Hartman, another artist, was not present when the photo was taken at Deane's. (Freeman Photo) said Mr. Heckman, "have given us back the stock so that we can resell that stock and make improvements with the money received for it." Mrs. Belmont Towbin, Zena, is chairman of subscriptions and Mr. Heckman asked those interested in buying stock to contact her.

As has been the custom during the past two seasons, sustaining members in the Artists Association will again receive a print by a prominent artist. This membership, $10 annually, also entitles such member to all guest privileges at the gallery. Denny Winters, chairman, membership committee, stated that "there is a good deal of dead wood in our membership lists. We expect these to be completely revised this year and urge every member who has not already done so to pay dues of 1949." After some discussion it was decided to bill members for unpaid dues. Those not received within a given period will be automatically dropped from the membership list.

Membership Defined
The qualifications required for becoming an active member in the Woodstock Artists Association came in for some discussion from the floor. Chairman Ludins told those interested that applicants must submit their work to be juried. The jury comprising the board of directors will meet for this purpose about August 1. Once accepted by the board, an active member must exhibit once in two years or they automatically become inactive again. Members must be residents of Woodstock, vicinity.

Another question brought up, but on which there was practically no discussion was the bug-a-boo, "How does a jury determine what is a good painting?"

Karl Fortness, chairman of exhibitions, told those present that 257 different items representing the work of 138 artists had been exhibited last season. "There has never been a series of exhibitions satisfactory to everyone, but we will go on and try to maintain standards and still get the most representation as possible in the shows," he hoped the additional representation might be possible because of the two additional exhibitions.

When asked why associate members were not chosen as jurors, Fletcher Martin answered by saying "Most association members are not qualified to be jurors."

His report given were those of Ralph Wickiser, publicity; and Mrs. Philip Fitz Patrick, co-ordinator.

Tellif Tellefsen Scores First Pitching Success, 10 to 2, Over Stamford

Ex-Columbia Ace Scatters Nine Hits; Delivers Double, Single With Bat

Tellif Tellefsen, of the fluid pitching motion, jumped on the Colonial bandwagon last night for his first pitching triumph of the season, a gilt-edged 10-2 decision over the third place Stamford Pioneers before 550 paid admissions at municipal stadium.

The tall, blond righthander with the "swell build" achieved pitching and batting heroics as the Colonials rolled to their fourth victory in the last five starts and the attendance was boosted to more than 1,200 for two successive home games.

Close Tonight

The series winds up tonight at 8:30 with Larry Cauvel, the probable local starter against Emil Moscovitz, ace of the Stamford staff.

Tellefsen yielded nine hits according to the boxscore but several were of the scratch variety and with a little luck he would have hung up a whitewash job. Ralph Matzer momentarily bobbed a DP ball in the sixth as the Pioneers picked up a run. The final Stamford marker in an abortive ninth inning uprising had a ring of authenticity to it. Callahan, the cleanup batter, pulled a triple into the right center field alley and scored on Bill Swacki's single over second. In between, Tellefsen was the complete master with a live fast ball and cracking curve.

Gets Two Hits

Offensively, Tellefsen produced a double and single and drew two walks for a perfect "2 for 2" performance. Both of his hits sparked Colonial rallies.

Two big innings sufficed for the Colonials at the expense of Eddie Dunn, a wildish southpaw who was a real friend while he lingered on the scene. Sad Sam Gaines mopped up.

Danny Perlmutter, who boosted his BA with hits the first two times up, opened the game on a note of triumph for the Colonials, whacking a 2-2 pitch for a clean single to center. Elenchin bounced on a wild pitch and scored on Allen Thomaler's single to center. Jose Abreu's shot to the same sector to score Thomaler.

Four-Run Rally

Murray got two bases on a short pop fly back of first to launch a four-run rally in the second. Quickly followed a pass to Tellefsen, Perlmutter's run scoring single to center and a walk to Elenchin leading the sacks. Thomaler inadvertently tapped a grounder to third, Tellefsen scoring. Frank Granato's rlie shot to left accounted for Perlmutter and Elenchin and a 6-0 bulge.

Dunn was routed in the seventh when Granato missed a bunt then delivered a single to center behind Elenchin's walk and Thomaler's hit off Pavone's glove. Abreu's long fly, Matzer's walk and Murray's scoreline to center completed the rout.

COLONIAL CAPERS: Five players—Perlmutter, Thomaler, Granato, Murray and Tellefsen—had two hits for Kingston. Ted Laviano announced the sale of Frank Oliveri to the Poughkeepsie Chiefs. Art White has been given his unconditional release. Ralph Matzer had one of his jitters nights but no great damage resulted. Thomaler may miss tonight's game because of a death in the family. The crowds are getting bigger and livelier, a good shot in the arm for the players. Leone, the Stamford right fielder, did a beautiful adagio before speaking; Jose Abreu's left foot right in the fifth. This Stein, Stamford second sacker, is a temperamental baby. Johnny Gentile, the former Kingston Recreation second sacker, was in uniform as Stamford manager. Joe Glenn, ex-Yankee, who pilots the Pioneers is ill. McNamara almost completed a miraculous bare-handed catch on Pavone's looper behind second.

North Front's Bargain to Colonials

When a group of North Front street merchants became alarmed about the status of the Colonial franchise, they went out and did something about it. All the way to Bristol with a pocketful of greenbacks to purchase Larry Cauvel, southpaw flinger who is a welcome addition to the Colonial staff. Cauvel was officially delivered to President Ted Laviano right in the middle of that historic thoroughfare, North Front street. The principals in this unique transaction in usual order are: southpaw Cauvel, Al Burnett, John Berinato, Lou Kantrowitz and Laviano. Cauvel may make his debut tonight against Stamford at the stadium. (Freeman Photo)

The Champ Delivers His Spiel

Former world's match game bowling champion, Joe Miller, of Buffalo, gives with some inside dope on grips and slips as a group of Kingston sharpshooters look on during Miller's recent appearance at Ferraro's Bowldrome. Jack Altamore, extreme left, seems elated by the spiel; Miller; Floyd Barnum, who can't seem to make up his mind; John "The Ace" Ferraro with that Missouri expression on his face and Fred Ferraro, who seems terribly bored by the proceedings. Stauble's Edge Boulevards, 4-3; Brice Forces in Winning Tally

Barry Brice, Saugerties southpaw, forced in the winning run in the bottom half of the seventh as Stauble's Bakery edged Boulevard Gulf Gas, 4 to 3, yesterday in the City League.

The Bakers picked up their third win in seven starts to cement their hold on fourth place, while the Gulfmen dropped to a triple tie with the Colonial Merchants and Frank's Sport Shop in the league cellar.

Brice permitted only six hits and held a 3-1 lead at the end of the fifth, when Stauble's scored twice in the sixth and then pushed across the winning marker in the seventh.

McCormick Wins

Ed McCormick, who was returned the winner, yielded nine hits and fanned six. He balked in a run in the fourth when Boulevards scored twice. Tom Carlino's single accounted for the other. The Gulfmen closed out their scoring in the fifth via Brice's single, W. Jackson's two base error in left and G. Jackson's miscue on Schaffer's ground ball.

Singles by W. Jackson and Bill Olen sandwiching a sacrifice opened Stauble's scoring in the fourth. The tying runs crossed in the sixth. W. Jackson and Pe. lina delivered successive singles. J. Secreto arced on Olen's drive to right and two successive force plays accounted for runs.

Wiltwyck Motors will attempt to snap Jones Dairy's six-game winning streak in today's contest. Bill Newkirk and Tommy Fisher have been announced as the starting pitchers.

Bo Shafter, Tom Carlino and Ronnie Mauro each delivered two hits for the losers.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

By The Associated Press

By JOE REICHLER

The mystery of Johnny Sain and his loss of pitching magic grows deeper every time the former Boston ace takes the mound.

Veteran observers, who watched the 30-year-old curve-balling righthander ring up 24 victories for the Braves last year, are at a loss to explain his all too numerous dismal performances this season.

What has happened to Sain, a 20-game winner for the past three seasons? He is not in ill health and Sain insists his arm is as strong as ever. Then what is wrong?

Charles Rated 13-10 Choice Over Walcott

NBA Heavyweight Title At Stake Tonight

Chicago, June 22 (AP)—Jersey Joe Walcott, fighting 35-year-old father of six children, and Ezzard Charles, a belting bachelor of 180 pounds, battle for the world heavyweight boxing title (N.B.A. version) at Comiskey Park tonight (9:30 p. m., E.S.T.).

The crowd, like the choice of fighters, was a take-your-pick proposition with around 25,000 the best guess. The weatherman, however, promised clear, cool weather to perk up general admission sales.

The two negro contenders to replace Joe Louis vacated crowd were to weight-in at noon (E.S.T.) at Chicago Stadium. Walcott, the aging but clever clown from Camden, N. J., was expected to scale 194. That would give him an approximate 15-pound weight pull if Cincinnati's 27-year-old Charles came in at a likely 175.

Louis Anniversary
 It was exactly 12 years ago tonight in Comiskey Park that Louis sledgehammered the heavy-weight crown off the scarred brow of James J. Braddock. Louis retired as undefeated champion last March.

As time for the 15-round affair neared, the eight-year-younger Charles was a dwindling 10 to 13 favorite. Apparently the gamblers, like the fight writers, were beginning to minimize Ezzard's age advantage in the face of Walcott's 130-pro bout experience and two agile performances against then-champion Louis.

More and more, they recalled how Walcott toppled Louis twice in their first meeting and lost a highly-debated decision only because he climbed on his bicycle in the closing rounds.

Each fighter will get 25 per cent of net receipts, plus a slice of radio and television sugar, estimated at $35,000.

For arm-chair fans, the fight will be broadcast (A.B.C.) and on television (N.B.C.) with exception of the immediate Chicago area which will be blacked out.

Elections Are Ordered
 New York, June 22 (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board yesterday ordered the holding, before July 20, of union representation elections affecting 1,115 sales and other employees in three stores of E. Bonwit Teller, Inc., in New York City, White Plains, N. Y., and Boston. The competing unions are the A.F.L. Retail Clerks International Association and the C.I.O. Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America. The employees affected have no collective bargaining agent now.

Stayed With Friends
 Local police were notified at 3:55 p. m. Tuesday that Ruth Mae Stokes, 14, of 11 East Pierpont street, who was reported missing from her home last Sunday, had been located on Chambers street, where she had been staying with friends. Officers Thomas McGrane and Leonard Ellsworth brought her to her home.

African slaves were first introduced in America in 1619, the first shipment going to Jamestown.

Lions Club Hosts To Baseball Team

A full and varied program at the Kingston Lions Club regular meeting Tuesday noon featured short addresses by Frederic Snyder, lecturer, and Ted Laviano, president of the Kingston Colonial baseball team, as well as moving pictures showing technical development of the Meridian Dam project at Lackawack.

Snyder told of the rise of Edward F. Hutton from his first job with the old Diamond Truck and Car Gear Company in this city to nationally known investment banker. Hutton will be guest of honor at a joint meeting of Lions, Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs at a date to be announced.

Laviano, who with members of the Colonial team were guests at Tuesday's dinner, thanked the Lions Club members for their support of the team and announced the fact that a special "service club night" will be held at the municipal stadium in the near future.

The pictures of the Lackawack water supply project were shown by Thomas K. A. Hendrick, civil engineer (water supply), with the designing division of the New York Board of Water Supply's engineering bureau. Slides were also shown, depicting the valleys before being taken over for the water supply project.

Members of the Kingston staff of the B.W.S. were also guests at the Lions Club meeting and were introduced by President-elect Theodore R. Lee, assistant counsel at the board's local legal department.

Acheson to . . .

Major Gen. Pavel Kvashnin, Soviet transport chief, in reply to a request from the three western commandants.

The strike leaders said they would meet again to decide "further action to be taken." They said they would issue statement citing their reasons for rejecting the offer, which included 60 per cent of wages in west marks and a promise of no reprisals for striking.

Some 14,000 men walked off their jobs May 21, asking payment of all their wages in Allied-sponsored west marks, worth four times as much as Russian-backed east marks; job security, and recognition of their union.

Union recognition is the big stumbling block in settling the strike, which has halted rail traffic between Berlin and western Germany and elevated railway service in the west zones of Berlin.

The railway management refuses to do business with any union except the non-striking Communist Free German Trades Union.

Kvashnin last night said he had no reason to believe the railway management would renge on its offers. The sense of his letter was that they would not take action against men who only had walked off their jobs, but those who committed crimes during the strike probably would have to face the consequences.

During early strike violence, in which two persons were killed by Soviet sector police, rails were torn up and some installations were damaged. The strike leaders were nervous about this. They saw it as a means of exacting retribution.

Business Probe

reporters "the whole problem of procurement should be kept under constant scrutiny for irregularities."

Announcing the Grindle-Hunt investigation, Hooey said that after the study is completed a subcommittee "will determine what course should be followed in the public interest."

"It should be clearly understood," he added, "that the mere fact that the staff of the committee has been asked to make this investigation is in no sense a prejudgment of any of the issues involved."

The staff investigation probably will take "a few days," Rogers said.

Hooey said the investigation will be based on articles in the New York Herald Tribune reporting that Grindle, president and treasurer of C. W. Loring Woodworking Corporation and a former Herald Tribune reporter, had paid $1,000 to Hunt.

Hunt, formerly a lieutenant colonel in the army quartermaster department and later an employee of the War Assets Administration, now is a "management consultant" here.

The newspaper said Grindle agreed to pay Hunt's firm $1,000 down, $500 a month for one year and five per cent of the gross amount of any government contracts he received.

Bishop Protests

Vassar Article

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 22 (AP)—The Rt. Rev. Dr. Charles F. Gilbert, New York Episcopal Bishop, said yesterday that he was "deeply disturbed" by reports that Vassar College faculty members and student publications had attacked Christianity.

Gilbert's comment followed a protest by the Rt. Rev. Michael P. O'Shea, dean of Catholic clergy in Dutchess and Putnam counties, against publication of an article in the June issue of the Vassar Review.

Other O'Shea's protest was in connection with an article by Isabel Aronin of Woodmore, N. Y., titled "Dan: A Mountain Tale" which he said "insidiously attacks the sacred foundations of Christianity by besmirching the character of Mary and the divinity of Christ."

The Catholic protest drew a reply from Sarah Gibson Blaudy, Vassar president, who wrote Father O'Shea: "I deeply regret that any publication that bears the name of Vassar should be offensive to any citizen of this community."

Referring apparently to a similar protest by Dr. James A. Pike, rector of Christ Episcopal Church, Dr. Gilbert said: "This is a matter that should be of concern to clergy and parents everywhere as well as to the trustees of the college."

"I am in full accord with the efforts of the ministry of the Episcopal Church to maintain a Christian witness in the lives of students," he added.

Assessing that over 40 per cent of Vassar's student body were Episcopalians, Dr. Gilbert said: "We intend to discharge with all possible vigor our obligation to these students, providing Christian teaching and counseling for them and for all others who will hear."

The bishop also said: "I am persuaded that the new Commission on College Work created by the last convention of the Diocese of New York has a very compelling challenge in the task of strengthening the religious understanding of students throughout the diocese."

Infant Recovering After Fall From Window

Stewart King, 21-month-old son of a former Kingston woman, today was reported as recovering satisfactorily from the effects of a two-story fall at his home in Catsaugus, Pa., on June 15.

According to Dr. J. J. Scheller, who treated the boy at Sacred Heart Hospital for a fractured skull, the youngster climbed on a radiator and pushed out a window screen. His father tried unsuccessfully to catch the infant, but he fell 28 feet to the pavement below, the physician said.

The parents are Mr. and Mrs. Russell King of 545 Fourth street, Catsaugus, Pa. The mother is the former Jane Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Fraser Stewart of 231 Clifton avenue, Kingston.

Pork Supplies Forecast

Washington, June 22 (AP)—Bearing out earlier forecasts of bigger pork supplies to come, an Agriculture Department survey today put the 1949 spring pig crop at 59,040,000 head. This is an increase of 15 per cent over last year's spring crop. Spring pigs will provide the country's pork supply during the coming fall and winter. The larger supplies of pork will be offset to some extent, however, by smaller supplies of beef and lamb.

Order Arraignment In Auto Accident Case

New York, June 22 (Special)—Arraignment on charges of vehicle assault and leaving the scene of an accident, arising from an accident in which Mrs. Walter Rosenau of Walker Valley, was seriously hurt here on February 22, was ordered Tuesday for Vera Bueshauer of 1095 Park avenue, New York.

A criminal information was filed against the New York woman in Special Sessions Court here this morning by District Attorney Frank S. Hogan.

Mrs. Rosenau was struck by a hit-run car as she tried to cross Park avenue at 85th street, according to the police.

name and linked the archbishop with other "church dignitaries." He accused them of working with the "enemies of the republic abroad" in attempts to "disrupt peace and quiet and distract citizens" from their diligent work in the construction of a peoples' democratic republic and the fulfillment of economic plans.

Zapolsky claimed the government is ensuring religious freedom and accused the Catholic hierarchy of rejecting a fair church-state agreement. Beran has denied this. He charges the Communists' aim to enslave the church.

Collects Insurance, Too

Trenton, N. J., June 22 (AP)—A 33-year-old woman who served a one-year prison term for the fatal stabbing of her husband will collect his $1,000 life insurance policy plus a $373 double indemnity settlement for accidental death. The payments were agreed on yesterday by Mrs. Ethel M. Hatfield, the widow-beneficiary, and the Hancock Life Insurance Company.

Charged with involuntary manslaughter, Mrs. Hatfield said her husband, Jess, attacked her when she "took her time" in making a sandwich for him and he ran against the knife she was holding.
